THE INTRODUCTION

WHY GOVERNMENTS LOVE INFLATION

Inflation occurs when the supply of money in circulation begins to become debased and erodes in value. The government, with its insiders and elites, is both the cause of and the primary beneficiary of inflation.

To see why, consider the past, when money was linked to metal coins made out of gold or silver. In ancient Rome, a denarius was at first almost 100% pure silver. Slowly and gradually, over time, the Roman government reduced the amount of silver in the denarius until it contained only 2% silver.

Why? Because by debasing the currency, the Roman emperors were able to pay off government debts by forcing its citizens to accept coins that had less and less precious metal content. The debased coins were worth less, forcing citizens to spend more and more denarius to buy basic goods. In other words, debasing the currency caused inflation.

“IT CAN’T HAPPEN HERE”—OR CAN IT?

Today a similar debasing process is going on with American money. Once a U.S. dime was 90% silver; now it is 0% silver. Until 1934, a U.S. dollar bought an ounce of gold for the fixed rate of $20.67. Now it costs over $1,100 to buy an ounce of gold.

The U.S. dollar is almost certain to have a sustained run of extremely high inflation over the next decade because of Obama’s huge deficit spending and unfunded liabilities like his health care “reform.”

Even without a health care takeover, the Petersen/Pew Commission on Budget Reform last year warned that the national debt is expected to grow from 40% of the gross domestic product (GDP) in 2009 to 85% of the GDP in 8 years, 100% in 12 years, and 200% by 2038.

In other words, in just a few years our nation will owe twice as much as it produces. Since no conceivable level of taxes and borrowing will enable the U.S. to service such an enormous debt, the cowardly political way to deal with the situation will be to allow inflation to run rampant.

HOW LOW CAN IT GO?

What will happen next is that... [\[Learn more--click here to order How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Grab.\]](#)

HOW TO PREPARE FOR THE COMING INFLATION

WHY GOLD ISN'T ALWAYS THE BEST INVESTMENT (BUT WHY TO BUY SOME ANYWAY)

Traditionally, gold has been the haven that nervous investors turn to when frightened about the strength of the dollar. Gold coinage has been money for at least 5,000 years.

All you have to do is look at the recent massive rise in gold prices—up almost 25% since Obama took office—to see how fears of the inflationary economy has affected the price of gold.

Gold bugs will point to numerous reasons you should own gold, and why its price will go to $1,500, $2,000 or even $10,000 an ounce. Its use in industry is increasing. Demand from countries like India and China are driving prices up. Gold is currently trading below its inflation-adjusted range.

However, before you plunge into the gold market, be aware of some gold pitfalls.

First of all, if you are reading this anytime after October, 2009, you are coming late to the party. Hundreds of thousands of nervous investors have been pouring their dollars into gold. High demand = high price, regardless of what the dollar does or does not do. The Reserve Bank of India came into the market in the second quarter of the year and bought 200 tons of gold.

So gold prices rise out of fear, greed and market sentiment as much as they do out of underlying factors like inflation. If investors become more bullish on the world economy, demand for gold may slacken.

However, gold is widely recognized as an alternative to currency. Until 1934, don't forget, the dollar was backed by gold at $20.67 per ounce, which shows how deflated the dollar has become relative to this coveted commodity.

So should you buy gold? Yes, because as the world becomes awash with Obama funny money, the value of the dollar is bound to fall.

Should you buy gold now? That's a much more dicey proposition. It depends on current gold prices, your appetite for volatility, your liquidity and your patience. Given the run-up in gold prices over the last year, the best advise I can give is to buy gold in increments when the market dips. Don't put all of your money into gold (don't put all of your money into any of the strategies recommended in this eBook), but do make gold a part of your inflation-hedging strategy.

HOW HIGH WILL GOLD GO?

Of course, no one really knows the answer to that question since... [\[Learn more--click here to order How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Grab.\]](#)

PART II:
BEATING THE BANKS
AT THEIR OWN GAME

WHY FIXED RATE MORTGAGES ARE YOUR FRIEND

In the coming government super-inflation, a fixed rate mortgage will make you smile. That's because in a fixed rate mortgage, the lender will be absorbing the cost of inflation.

Currently, 30 year fixed rate mortgage interest rates are at historic lows. The bankers seem to be betting that inflation over the next 30 years will be relatively mild.

You, of course, should be betting the other way. Here's why:

Assume you finance $300,000 home loan at a rate of 4.5%. Your monthly payments will be approximately $1,064.

Assume, for the sake of argument, that inflation averages 8% per year for the next 10 years.

In 10 years, your payment will still be $1,064. But $1,064 in 10 years will, after inflation, only buy what you could buy for $462 today.

In other words, inflation forced your banker to eat $602—the value of lost purchasing power.

So if you have a fixed rate loan, inflation works in your favor even if you never save a cent. That's because your wages will likely rise with the rate of inflation as well. The $20/hr. you get today will magically turn into $43.18 ten years from now. To be clear, $43 ten years from now will only buy the same amount of goods that $20 will buy today.

BUT: your banker is still getting paid the same dollar payment that he did at the start of the loan. You're paying him with cheapened dollars.

That's why Mom and Dad's home loan payments always seem so laughably small.

Moral: don't fall for adjustable rate home mortgages. Make sure all of your properties have fixed rate loans at the lowest interest rate you can find.

DON'T GET LOCKED INTO HELOCS

During the housing boom, a lot of us... [*\[Learn more-

HOW TO DIVERSIFY
OUT OF DOLLARS

U.S. TREASURY BONDS: “CERTIFICATES OF GUARANTEED CONFISCATION”

Assuming your objective is to obtain a reasonable return on your investment capital, there is little to recommend in owning U.S. Treasury bonds.

The purchasing power of the U.S. dollar has sunk 70% in the last 30 years.

Assume for a moment that Treasury bonds do just as “well” for the next three decades. Not even allowing for the growth of your capital, 30 year U.S. Treasury Notes need to yield 4% just for the government to return your money to you unharmed.

Before his inauguration, then President-Elect Obama warned that the U.S. would run trillion-dollar deficits “for years to come.” Take him at his word. The dollar is being debased at an ever increasing rate. The Fed is holding short-term interest rates at an artificial low that must soon end, and long term rates are rising in anticipation of a spike in inflation.

In his first year in office, Obama has put into place spending and entitlement programs that will require unprecedented amounts of borrowing for decades.

Do you think the U.S. dollar will be as sound over the next three decades as over the last three?

Far from being the safe, fool-proof investment of years past, U.S. Treasury Bonds are developing into sure-fire wealth deflaters—or, as economist Dr.

Franz Pick called them, "certificates of guaranteed confiscation."

TIPS: INFLATION PROTECTION OR INFLATION FRAUD?

As fears about inflation have justly grown, the U.S. Treasury has offered "Treasury Inflation Protected Securities" (TIPS). These are bonds which... [\[Learn more--click here to order How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Grab.\]](#)

PREPARING FOR THE WORST

WHY THE U.S. GOVERNMENT INTENDS TO ALLOW THE DOLLAR TO WEAKEN

“The dollar fell particularly sharply last week, though, as traders were reminded of the patently obvious – that the White House actually wants the dollar to fall. US Treasury officials have lately taken to staring into the TV cameras, puffing out their chests, then stating: ‘We are committed to a strong dollar.’ That’s nonsense, of course, because a weaker currency boosts US exports and lowers the value of America’s external debt.

“When the minutes of the Fed’s latest policy meeting were published on Tuesday, describing the dollar’s decline as ‘orderly,’ the markets rightly took that as confirmation of America’s ‘benign neglect’ approach – with intervention to support the dollar unlikely...

“Yet the state of the dollar poses enormous dangers. For one thing, America’s currency depreciation trick could backfire if ‘the rope slips’ and a steadily dollar decline turns into free fall... The world’s largest economy would then be caught in a stagflation trap – a slump, but with high inflation...

“A rapid ‘unwinding’ could cause major losses at financial institutions, posing renewed systemic dangers. Far from being a safe haven, the dollar is the likely source of the next financial crisis.”

WHY YOUR TAXES ARE GOING SKY HIGH #2: BUSH CUTS DISAPPEAR

Tax cuts instituted by President Bush--a generous array of tax breaks for middle-class Americans, including child care credits and a relief from the alternative minimum tax -- are set to expire at the end of 2010. The Democrats would dearly like to...

START AN EXPORT BUSINESS

Exporting American goods is a huge business. According to the US Department of Commerce, American companies exported over $770 billion of merchandise to more than 154 countries last year. As the dollar declines in value, exports will surge since American goods will be bargained priced.

To be successful as an exporter you need to find appealing products which sets your business apart from your competitors. Target a specific economic segment (technology, medical) and get started by becoming an export management company--finding buyers for good manufactured by American companies. As you develop contacts, expand your export line to include other products and services that extend your niche.

Toilets, gourmet food, telephone poles, navigational aids, pet food—possible export niches are endless. You are limited only by your ability to bring together a willing seller and needful buyer.

CONSIDER A MOVE TO THE COUNTRY

Should the dollar suffer a precipitous collapse, it may prove easier to survive in the countryside to... [\[Learn more--click here to order How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Grab.\]](#)

BOOK REVIEW

INFLATION SURVIVAL SECRETS - REVIEW

“Are irresponsible politicians and out-of-control government spending about to send the dollar into a massive inflationary melt down?”

“Patrick Harris thinks so. He’s a college professor and financial researcher who isn’t afraid to take Barack Obama to task for his crazy spending binge.

“In How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Grab, Harris gives dozens of detailed strategies on protecting your wealth in time of inflation.

“Harris says Obama’s spending binge is unprecedented, with first-year deficits ten times (!) greater than under Bush in 2007.

“Economists agree: the gush of money and promises coming out of Washington will cause a huge jump in inflation and may even bring the U.S. dollar down.

“In How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Guide, readers learn how (and when) to invest in precious metals like gold and silver, commodities like oil and timber, foreign currencies—even art and stamps.

“How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Grab teaches you how to hold onto your money in the face of fierce inflation and a sea of rising taxes. The author spent months researching the strategies he offers, with many surprising insights.

“For instance, he talks about why you better have that surgery now if you expect to be able to pay for it, and lists scores of new tax hazards on the way and how to avoid them.

“You may be skeptical about the quality of financial information you will get in an eBook like How to Protect Your Money from the Coming Obama Inflation Grab, but this is one title that really delivers.

“Five stars for timely warning, accurate information that will save you money, and a 60 day risk free guarantee.”
